From 2006, the subject Life sciences will replace the subject known as Biology in the further education and training (FET) curriculum. As part of the new and revised Life sciences school curriculum, teachers and learners will soon be required to attain a basic understanding of the theory of evolution. Preparation for this subject will begin in general education and training (GET) classrooms. The workbook focuses specifically on assisting educators build their own understanding of genes, the mechanisms of inheritance and selection - the basics of evolution. Starting with cells and working through to genetic codes, the workbook uses diagrams, illustrations, text information and activity sheets to cover the content necessary for teaching the concept of evolution. Written in the form of an interactive text, educators are encouraged to form their own thoughts and make notes in the book as they work through it.
